

Totems: A sign of the success and wealth of the native cultures that evolved along the coast, whether Haida, Kwakiutl, Tlingit, or Tsimshian. Sheltered by a benevolent forest, blessed with a food filled sea, the tribes could afford the luxury of permanent village sites and ornamental art.

